

Snigdha Farjana

Snigdha Farjana is a Programme Officer (Climate Justice) at Nari Kantho. She holds a Master of Social Science (M.S.S.) degree from the National University. Her academic background has strengthened her understanding of social and environmental issues. She has in-depth knowledge of coastal areas and climate change and its impacts on vulnerable communities. Snigdha has firsthand experience working with climate-affected populations. She was born and brought up in the local community, which helps her connect closely with people at the grassroots level. She actively engages with women and marginalized groups. Her work focuses on climate justice and community resilience. She believes in inclusive and participatory development. Through her role at Nari Kantho, she contributes to sustainable and people-centered climate solutions.